GARDNER-WEBB COLLEGE

Vol. 6, No. 1 | BOILING SPRINGS, N. C. | September, 1972

SUMMER COMMENCEMENT—Vincent J. Colombo, center, superintendent of Cleveland County schools, addressed G-W's summer graduating class in exercises Aug 12. College President Dr. E. Eugene Poston, left, conferred 54 bachelor of science degrees, 23 bachelor of arts degrees, and three associate of arts degrees. Academic Vice President Thomas J. McGraw, right, presided at the E. B. Hamrick Auditorium exercises, attended by an overflow audience of parents, faculty and friends.

Business Intern Program Launched

Is it possible for a college student to know what it's like to work in the business world before he graduates?

A new program at Gardner-Webb is giving business students just that opportunity.

First put into practice this past summer, the internship program allows a student to work with a business firm of his choice for three months, earning 15 hours of college credit in the process.

Six students completed internships during the initial summer session and termed the program a big success. The firms for which they worked—a savings and loan association, industrial plants, a linen service, and a television and appliance center—also felt the internships were worthwhile.

The program was instituted by the college's division of business and economics under the direction of Deck Andrews. It is designed to provide the student with actual business experience and also to give prospective employers an opportunity to train and decide if they want to hire a young person right out of college.

"This program was under study for more than a year before we put it into effect," Professor Andrews said. "Many businessmen do not have a chance to evaluate a prospective employee until the person is already at work and under contract." He added that internships give both the business and the student an opportunity to evaluate each other and make a reasonable decision as to any future plans for working together.

Each participating business firm is asked to file regular reports with the college as to the student's progress, his work and his personal attitude. Students may generally sign up for this program during their junior or senior year.

G-W Begins 67th Year

GARDNER-WEBB began its 67th year in late August, looking toward some historic moments.

The year will see an expansion of campus facilities, testimony to the success of the college's recent capital gifts campaign.

Construction on the new John R. Dover, Sr. Library will get underway in early fall, providing one of the most modern facilities of its kind in the area. The present library will be converted into a classroom building.

The Webb Administration Building will be doubled in size in another construction project, hopefully allowing the college's entire administration to be housed under one roof. Because of a space shortage, various administrative offices currently are situated all over the campus.

The John R. Dover, Jr. Memorial Chapel now being completed is to be dedicated in late October. This modern and inspiring building has become the religious heart of the campus. It will house a chapel, offices of the college minister, Baptist Student Union quarters, and professors' offices.

The capital gifts campaign backing the present growth began with a goal of $1,500,000, but already has passed the $2,500,000 mark.

IN addition to new buildings, Gardner-Webb begins the year with many new educational ideas, including the business internship program described elsewhere in this issue.

Remaining constant, however, is Gardner-Webb's continuing desire to provide top quality Christian higher education for its students, who number around 1,500.

GOALS for the future include continued updating of buildings, increasing the number of faculty members with doctor's degrees, expanding the curriculum, and increasing student aid to make it possible for more qualified young people to afford a college education.

Gifts and pledges totaling $8,005 were made to the 1971-72 Gardner-Webb College Annual Fund by alumni and friends, a record "living endowment" for our alma mater. These pages honor Annual Fund donors, truly investors in a greater Gardner-Webb.

From The Association President

Gardner-Webb College has many needs and opportunities not covered by income from tuition and fees. Even money received from other sources such as foundations and private enterprise have specific restrictions as to use.

Your gift to the Annual Fund goes directly into action at Gardner-Webb. More than any other single program the Annual Fund benefits every area of campus life. Your gift helps to balance the budget and provides the margin for sound operations for excellence and service.
President Eugene Poston has said: "There are few dollars in the college's budget that go farther and mean more than the gifts of alumni and friends made through the Annual Fund—a great 'living endowment' for Gardner-Webb College."

The Annual Fund began its 6th year on July 1, 1972. In the first 5 years more than $25,000 has been contributed by alumni and friends of the college. The 5th year was the best ever. Together we can make the 6th even greater.

Your gifts pay dividends in the life of a great institution and its students.

The Annual Fund campaign is on a fiscal year basis from July 1 through June 30. If your name has been omitted, incorrectly spelled or recorded, we apologize and ask that you provide us with the current information.

Know A Prospect?

Oo you know a high school student who's in the process of choosing a college? Please tell him about Gardner-Webb's new "VIP Days" program, under which he can visit the campus, take part in its activities, and decide if it's the college for him.

Gardner Webb as host for visiting high schoolers will offer these "Very Important Pupils" a look at campus facilities, visits with faculty and administration, and participation in sports and social events, resident hall life and religious programs.

G-W wants satisfied students, and it's felt that VIP Oays will help the prospective student to enter college knowing just exactly what G-W has to offer in all areas.

If you have a student prospect in mind, invite him to fill out the blank at right and mail it to Gardner-Webb College, P O Box 897, Boiling Springs, N. C. 28017. A college staffer will be in touch with him.
